

THE BULL AT BROUGHTON, Nr. Skipton, Yorkshire

Michelin-starred chef Nigel Haworth is a man who understands how truly great a burger can be, and he has a superlative specimen on the menu at his Ribble Valley Inns. It consists of 100% local rump steak, ground on-site, to which suet is proportionally added to ensure a rich, fatty juiciness. It is then quickly char-grilled (leaving the middle rosy pink), and encased, controversially perhaps, in an English muffin (which soaks up juices without falling apart). Served with pickles, relish and dangerously good beef-dripping cooked chips, we don't think you'll find a finer burger (pictured right). Starters from £3.50, mains from £8.95. (thebullatbroughton.com)

